Entering the 2005-06 season, the Pacific-10 Conference continues to uphold its tradition as the "Conference of Champions." Pac-10 members have claimed an incredible 90 NCAA team titles over the past 11 seasons, for an average of more than eight championships per academic year. Even more impressive is the breadth of the Pac-10's success, as those 90 team titles have come in 21 different men's and women's sports. The Pac-10 has led the nation in NCAA Championships 39 of the last 45 years and finished second five times. Altogether, the Pac-10 has captured 342 NCAA titles (248 men's, 94 women's), far outdistancing the runner-up Big Ten Conference's 201 titles.

The Pac-10 captured six NCAA titles in 2004-05, third-most in the nation. And it should be noted that the Pac-10 total does not include USC's national championship in football or California's in rugby, as they are not counted as NCAA titles. The Pac-10 tied the Big 12 for the most NCAA titles in women's sports with four.

NCAA team champions from the Pac-10 in 2004-05 came from UCLA (men's tennis, men's water polo and women's water polo), Stanford (women's volleyball and women's tennis) and California (women's rowing). The Pac-10 also had runners-up in eight NCAA events: women's golf (UCLA), soccer (UCLA) softball (UCLA), track and field (UCLA) and water polo (Stanford) and men's water polo (Stanford), swimming (Stanford) and volleyball (UCLA). Overall, the Conference had 20 teams finish in the top three at NCAA Championship events.

The Conference's reputation is further proven in the annual United States Sports Academy Directors' Cup competition, the prestigious award that honors the best overall collegiate athletics programs in the country. Stanford continued its remarkable run in the 2004-05 season, winning its 11th consecutive Directors' Cup. In the 2004-05 competition, seven of the top-20 Division I programs were Pac-10 members: No. 1 Stanford, No. 3 UCLA, No. 10 USC, No. 11 Arizona State, No. 14 Washington, No. 15 California and No. 18 Arizona. The Pac-10 landed six programs in the top-15, twice as many as any other conference, with the ACC and SEC at three each.

The Pac-10 experienced continued success in football as the league sent five teams to bowl games. USC claimed its third consecutive Pac-10 crown and second straight national championship, and Cal ranked ninth in the year-end national poll. The league went 3-2 in postseason bowl games, the best record among the BCS conferences, with Arizona State, Oregon State, California and UCLA also earning bids.

On the men's side, Pac-10 members have won 248 NCAA team championships, far ahead of the 188 claimed by the runner-up Big Ten. Individually, the Conference has produced an impressive number of NCAA men's individual champions as well, claiming 1,096 NCAA individual crowns.

On the women's side, the story is much the same. Since the NCAA began conducting women's championships 23 years ago, Pac-10 members have claimed at least four national titles in a single season on 16 occasions. Overall, the Pac-10 has captured 94 NCAA women's crowns, easily outdistancing the Southeastern Conference, which is second with 63. Pac-10 members have dominated a number of sports, winning 18 softball titles, 16 tennis crowns, 10 of the last 15 volleyball titles, 11 of the last 16 trophies in golf and eight in swimming and diving.

Pac-10 women athletes shine nationally on an individual basis as well, having captured an unmatched 439 NCAA individual titles, an average of more than 19 champions per season. The roots of the Pacific-10 Conference go back nearly 89 years to December 15, 1915, when the Pacific Coast Conference (PCC) was founded at a meeting at the Oregon Hotel in Portland, Ore. Original membership consisted of four schools — the University of California at Berkeley, the University of Washington, the University of Oregon, and Oregon State College (now Oregon State University). All still are charter members of the Conference.

Pacific Coast Conference play began in 1916. One year later, Washington State College (now Washington State University), was accepted into the Conference, and Stanford University joined in 1918.

In 1922, the PCC expanded to eight teams with the admission of the University of Southern California and the University of Idaho. Montana joined the Conference in 1924, and in 1928, the PCC grew to 10 members with the addition of UCLA. The Pacific Coast Conference competed as a 10-team league until 1950, with the exception of 1943-45, when World War II curtailed intercollegiate athletic competition. In 1950, Montana resigned from the Conference and joined the Mountain States Conference. The PCC continued as a nine-team Conference through 1958. In 1959, the PCC was dissolved and a new Conference was formed — the Athletic Association of Western Universities. Original AAWU membership consisted of California, Stanford, Southern California, UCLA, and Washington. Washington State became a member in 1962, while Oregon and Oregon State joined in 1964. In 1968, the name Pacific-8 Conference was adopted.

Ten years later, on July 1, 1978, the University of Arizona and Arizona State University were admitted and the Pacific-10 Conference became a reality. In 1986-87, the league took on a new look, expanding to include 10 women's sports. Currently, the Pac-10 sponsors 11 men's sports and 11 women's sports. Additionally, the Conference is a member of the Mountain Pacific Sports Federation (MPSF) in four other men's sports and two other women's sports.

The Pacific-10 Conference offices are located 25 miles east of San Francisco in Walnut Creek, Calif.

ARIZONA'S DEEP NCAA RUN CAPS PAC-10 SEASON

With Arizona and Washington advancing to the second weekend of the NCAA Tournament, the Pac-10 placed two teams to the Sweet Sixteen for the fifth time in nine seasons. Arizona reached the regional semifinals for the fourth time in five seasons. The Wildcats posted their third 30-win season in school history and captured their 11th Pac-10 regular-season title. Washington equaled the school record with 29 wins. It was the most victories for the Huskies since Hec Edmundson led Washington to 29 wins in 1938. The Huskies claimed the league's postseason crown, their first ever, with a 81-72 victory over Arizona in the championship game of the Pacific Life Pac-10 Tournament. Joining Arizona and Washington in the NCAA Tournament were UCLA and Stanford. It was the first postseason trip for UCLA since 2002, while Stanford made its 12th consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance. Oregon State posted its first winning season since 1990 and was rewarded with an NIT appearance. Arizona State also joined the Beavers in the NIT. It was the Sun Devils' fourth postseason appearance in the last six years. Oregon joined Arizona and Stanford as the only schools in the league to post four consecutive winning seasons. Arizona's Salim Stoudamire and Arizona State's Ike Diogu were rewarded nationally for their season-long efforts as both were consensus second team All-America selections.
